How To Get 'The Job' in 2015

The Best 'What to Wear to a Business Interview' Guide from My Sister's Closet and Well Suited

The Valley's style savvy CEO weighs in on how to dress to get ahead in the competitive world of job hunting

(PHOENIX) – Interviewing for that dream job can be both nerve racking and intimidating, but now thanks to a few simple style tips from My Sister's Closet and Well Suited, making that great impression and scoring a new job in 2015 is easier than you think.

Ann Siner, CEO and founder of My Sister's Closet, Well Suited and My Sister's Attic who grew her Eco-Chic Consignments to a $24+ million business with 15 locations knows just the right tips to help you land that dream job.

“Within 10 seconds of walking through the door for your job interview you have already made the first impression without even opening your mouth,” said Siner. “You could be the best candidate for the job, but if you don't make the right first impression it has the potential to ruin your chances of getting the job. You don't want to miss out on the perfect opportunity because you failed to impress your employer right off the bat.”

Not only is Siner fashion forward, her business savvy tips create the perfect list of do's and don'ts. Siner along with My Sister's Closet Vice President of Human Resources, Laura Fog, put together 'What to Wear to a Business Interview' guide that covers everything you would need to know to make the right first impression.

What to Wear to a Business Interview:

1. Do your research. Find out the company's dress code before you show up for the interview. For example, you will dress differently if you are interviewing at a law firm as opposed to a trendy advertising agency.
2. Dress one step above the company's dress code. Make the employer see you as the right candidate for the position.
3. Wear your "Power Suit." Find a suit or one outfit that gives you confidence like no other piece of clothing.
4. Don't experiment with new styles or wear something out of your comfort zone.
5. Your outfit should represent your attitude. Let it scream confidence!
6. Perfect your look from head to toe. From shoes, to purse, to makeup, to new eyeglasses, to Crest whitening strips to brighten your smile.
7. Be conscious of the little things. Are your nails manicured?
8. No cleavage.
9. Minimal skin.
10. Be polished, if you are not, the employer will notice.
11. Be aware of your posture during the interview, do not slouch and be attentive.
12. Smile during the interview. A frown can ruin even your best suit.

“Job searching can be an overwhelming process so follow the easy 'What to Wear to a Business Interview' guide and come let one of our stylists help you find everything you need to create your ideal Power Suit from My Sister's Closet and Well Suited,” said Fog.

My Sister's Closet and Well Suited, have locations across the Valley that offer a wide selection of recycled designer looks to help you get started and find the perfect interview attire.
